Abstract.
School literacy in the context of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is the ability to access, understand, and use things intelligently through various activities including reading, viewing, listening, writing, and speaking. This research aims to find out and describe how the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is implemented among students and the obstacles they face. In this research, the researcher chose SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung as the place for carrying out the research. This research is descriptive qualitative research, with data collection techniques in the form of observation, interviews, and documentation, and the researcher uses data analysis in the form of source triangulation. Based on the results of this research, it was found that the implementation of the school literacy movement (GLS) at SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung has fulfilled three stages of the school literacy movement (GLS), namely habituation, development, and learning based on the school literacy movement guidelines in junior high school, which was determined by the Directorate General of Primary and Secondary Education, Ministry of Education and Culture in 2016. Activities at the familiarization stage include opening class (Tadarus Al-Qur’an), daily reading journals, class library media, moving book media, literacy-themed poster media, creating a text-rich environment, alumni donating books to the library, and activities for selecting reading books. The development stage includes opening class (Tadarus Al-Qur’an), vocabulary game activities, BBQ activities (Bina Baca Qur’an), tasmi’ activities, activities responding to reading results, and independent reading hours. The learning stage includes opening class (Tadarus Al-Qur’an), vocabulary games, activities responding to reading results, and reading challenge activities. The obstacles faced in implementing the School Literacy Movement (GLS) at SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung include general obstacles and specific obstacles. The general obstacles consist of a lack of literacy-themed collections and inadequate library facilities. This results in a lack of interest in reading in the library, while special obstacles appear in moving book activities. This is due to the lack of supervision carried out by library staff, whose number is still minimal.

1. Introduction

Currently, the Ministry of Education and Culture (Kemendikbud) continues to make efforts to increase interest in reading among the public, especially students. As explained according to Law of the Republic of Indonesia No. 43 of 2007 regarding observations that need to be made and fostered regarding the culture of reading through the development and utilization of libraries as a source of information and learning resources for the community. Based on Q.S. Al-Alaq verses 1-5 regarding the command to read as a letter in the Al-Qur’an which was first revealed as follows.

Based on Al-Misbah’s interpretation, there are several values of Islamic education contained in the verse above, including the educational values of aqidah, shari’ah, and morals. The value of aqidah education is found in verses 1-3 with an interpretation of the value of aqidah education which teaches humanity to read in the name of Allah SWT, the Most Creator and Gracious. The value of sharia education (gairu mahdah worship) is contained in the second verse regarding the creation of humans which comes from ‘alaq (a clot of blood) with the meaning of being dependent on others. The explicit value of moral education is found in verses 1-2 regarding sincere, social and optimistic behavior, while what is implied is in verses 3-5 that the value of the Prophet Muhammad SAW’s faith and morals is to be a good role model. Apart from that, there is the value of intellectual education contained in verses 1-5 that reading does not have to be written only, but it is also important to read the natural world and the surrounding environment in facing life when in society.[1]

From the verse above, Allah SWT gives orders about reading, observing and researching what has been ordered, therefore it is very important to cultivate the habit of reading in oneself so that the character of a good reader and learner is formed. According to Paul Hazard, it is very important to develop insight into new things that can enable someone to love books and be able to develop a literacy spirit towards themselves which can then be applied throughout society.[2] Literacy itself, in the Big Indonesian Dictionary, is an activity that is closely related to the written tradition, but literacy is not only about reading and writing but is broadly about politics, technology, being sensitive to the surrounding environment, and being able to think critically. Kirsch & Jungeblut in their book Literacy : Profile of America’s Young Adult also explains that literacy is the ability possessed by a person to use information that will benefit society and be able to develop the knowledge they have.[3]

Efforts made to increase literacy can be done through the family and school environment by involving parents and teachers in reading activities which are expected to increase the love of reading and inspire children. This shows that literacy is very close to educational activities, not only that, literacy is now developing into multiliteracy in the world of education which cannot be separated from arts-based pedagogic concepts, multiple ways of knowing, and multiple intelligences which can increase the effectiveness of the learning environment for students. Based on the Ministry of Education and Culture, through Ministerial Regulation number 23 of 2013, issuing and explaining the school literacy movement in cultivating noble character attitudes towards children through language, the practice that can be carried out is by requiring every student to read books about local stories or folk tales before learning started. Instilling noble character in children in their golden age is very appropriate, one of which is through the school literacy movement.

School Literacy Movement (GLS) according to Minister of Education and Culture Regulation No.23 of 2015 is an activity that can encourage all children in Indonesia to have an interest in reading books themselves which is highly hoped that over time it will become a culture in national life.

Not only that, the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is an ability that is possessed in the form of the ability to understand, access and also use things intelligently which can be implemented through activities such as writing, reading, speaking, listening and seeing. The implementation of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) can be carried out comprehensively and sustainably so that schools are able to become learning organizations for literate students and teachers and of course involve the public so that they can run well.

The development of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is based on nine priority agendas (Nawacita) numbers 5 to 9 which relate to the duties and functions of the Ministry of Education, Culture, Research and Technology (Kemendikbud-Ristek), namely improving the quality of life of the Indonesian people, increasing productivity people and competitiveness in international markets so that they can be more advanced and develop together with other Asian nations, carry out a revolution in national character, strengthen diversity and strengthen Indonesia's social recovery. The literacy movement is not only related to reading and writing but also a person's ability to communicate in society, apart from that, practical activities that include knowledge, language and culture are also necessary in literacy.

Even though the School Literacy Movement is broad, it is still very closely related to reading and writing activities as explained in the QS. Al-Ankabut verses 48 and 49. Based on al-Muyassar's interpretation of the two verses above, it is a real miracle (wahai Rasul) that you were not able to read any book and write letter with your own hand.
before the Qur’an was revealed to you and even the Qur’an are verses that are clear and real in their guidance to the truth which have been memorized by the scholars and no one denies our verses and rejects them except the unjust and rebellious people who know them but turn away from them. And based on the Qur’anic verse above, the literacy movement cannot be separated from reading and writing activities to make students and school members more literate. In supporting and making school literacy activities a success, there needs to be a role for the school library in supporting these activities. School libraries can be used to carry out the School Literacy Movement (GLS) program to build and develop literacy in students.[4] Apart from that, the school library is also able to support information and act as a forum for students or teachers to implement literacy activities at school.[4]

Based on the Guide to the School Literacy Movement in Junior High Schools in 2016, it states that there are several stages in implementing the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in Junior High Schools, namely the habituation stage by developing interest in reading in students through 15 minute activities [6], the development stage which is carried out by increasing literacy skills through activities responding to enrichment books, and the learning stage by increasing literacy skills in all subjects by using enrichment books and reading strategies in all subjects.[7]

The School Literacy Movement (GLS) is also implemented by SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung. The School Literacy Movement (GLS) is a collaboration between school management and libraries or libraries as the pioneer of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in the school. For example, the Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung middle school library in Bandar Lampung has implemented the School Literacy Movement (GLS) guidelines for students. From the results of pre-research interviews with librarians at the Al-Azhar 3 middle school library in Bandar Lampung, the School Literacy Movement (GLS) program was carried out with various comprehensive activities such as 15 minute reading activities by selecting the required reading material before learning begins, independent reading hours, with the availability of reading posts in every corner of the classroom for students to respond to the results of reading in class orally and in writing. Apart from that, other activities such as each class have been given a schedule by the library for visiting times. The School Literacy Movement (GLS) which is implemented at Al-Azhar 3 middle School Bandar Lampung has advantages and disadvantages in its activities such as the literacy activity of reading the Al-Qur’an every morning carried out by students and teachers, a special schedule for tahfidz activities which are adapted to subject schedule with a special ustadz with only 1-2 hours, and mandatory activities to develop Qur’an reading for students who are still not very fluent in reading the Qur’an.
The literacy activities that have been implemented aim to familiarize students with honing or developing reading and writing skills in general and religious knowledge. However, the School Literacy Movement (GLS) program at SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung is not yet comprehensively based on the School Literacy Movement (GLS) guidelines from the Ministry of Education, Culture and Research and Tecnology. Apart from that, based on researchers’ observations, involvement and communication between teachers, students and library staff is not yet visible and well established. For this reason, it is important to carry out research to find out the extent to which the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is implemented among students. Based on the above background, it encouraged researchers to conduct research with the title “Implementation of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung Junior High School (SMP) Students”.

2. Methods

In this research, the researcher chose Al-Azhar 3 Middle School Bandar Lampung as the place to carry out the research. This research is descriptive qualitative research, with data collection techniques in the form of observation, interviews and documentation, and the researcher uses data analysis in the form of source triangulation. Source triangulation is testing data obtained from various sources of informants whose data will be taken. By using this source triangulation technique, the researcher attempts to compare data from interviews that have been obtained from each source or research informant which is used as a form of comparison in searching for and exploring the truth of the information obtained. It can be said that source triangulation is a form of cross checking data by comparing facts from one source with another source. Apart from interviews and observations, researchers can use participant observation, written document, archives, historical documents, official records, personal notes or writings, and pictures or photos.

of alumni being required to donate books to libraries is the School Literacy Movement (GLS) stage of habituation.

The BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) activity is a mandatory activity carried out by students outside of KBM (Teaching and Learning Aktivites) to reduce Al-Qur’an literacy. The School held a BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) so that students could read the Qur’an well, to achieve the target of comprehending the Qur’an, so that students did not experience difficulties when following Arabic language lessons in class, and to provide tahfidz content to students to be more fluent in reading the Koran. The BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) activity also collaborates with teachers and employees who have good knowledge of how to read the Qur’an. BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) has been implemented since 2011 when it was still in the old school building, until now in 2023 it has been implemented.
with a system that involves the students’ parents as well. Thus, BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) is a stage in the development of the School Literacy Movement (GLS).

The tasmi’ activity is a tahfidz graduation activity by memorizing and reciting the Al-Qur’an market by listening to the recitation of the Al-Qur’an which is recited by students without any mistakes in front of the tasmi’ examiners. The tasmi’ activity was carried out to carry out a non-academic assessment of the results of students’ reading of the Qur’an who had been trained through the BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) activity. The tasmi’ examiners were around 5-7 people who were also attended by the Foundation. Al-Azhar and parents of students taking exams. Tasmi’ activities have been implemented for three (3) years, starting from 2020 and are carried out only once a year. Thus, tasmi’ activities are a stage in the development of the School Literacy Movement (GLS).
The activity of responding to reading results is an activity carried out by teachers, especially Indonesian language teachers, by inviting students to take reading materials from the library such as story books or fairy tales, then in class students respond to the reading results as evidenced by a journal of responses to reading books. Responding to the reading results is carried out to carry out an academic assessment carried out by the teacher on students’ reading abilities regarding the summary or conclusion of the reading results, the delivery of the students’ reading results is carried out both orally and in writing, then the teacher carries out the assessment. The activity of responding to reading results has been implemented for three (3) years, starting from 2020. Thus, the activity of responding to reading results is a stage of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in development and learning.

Reading challenge activities are activities carried out as an effort to encourage oneself or others, in this case the scope of students at school, to carry out reading activities with a certain number of reading books and within a predetermined time period. The reading challenge is carried out during language month events or independence Day, by determining which students read the most, then two (2) versions are carried out, namely arranging what books the students have read, and telling what the books they have read are about. From this activity, a portfolio of students’ work will be created and rewards or prizes will be given to students at the end of the activity. Reading challenge activities are a challenging way to invite and inspire students to like reading activities more. The new reading challenge will be implemented by SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung in 2022 and will be implemented in period two (2) in 2023. Thus, the reading challenge activity is a stage of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in learning.

Apart from that, students can also choose reading books through moving book media and the class library. The activity of choosing reading books is carried out as a form of fulfilling the information needs of the school community, especially students, and as a form of recreation for students by reading story books or fairy tales that they like. Thus, the activity of choosing reading books is a stage of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in habituation.

Independent reading hours are reading activities that students do independently without having to be read to the contents of the book by the teacher. Independent reading is carried out to train and develop students’ abilities to understand reading content independently. This independent reading activity can be carried out in class or through moving book media by taking a reading book, understanding the contents of the reading book, and returning the reading book, understanding the contents of the reading book, and returning the reading book independently as a sense of responsibility for the book read. The independent reading hour activity has been implemented starting from 2021. Thus, the independent reading hour activity is a stage of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) in development.

4. Conclusion

This research concludes that first, the implementation of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) at SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung has fulfilled three (3) stages of the School Literacy Movement (GLS), namely habituation, development and learning based on the School Literacy Movement (GLS) Guidelines in Junior High School established by the Directorate General of primary and Secondary Education, Ministry of Education and Culture in 2016. The stages of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) are implemented through programs carried out by schools, libraries and teachers which include opening classes (Tadarus Al-Qur‘an), providing a class library or class reading corner, moving book media, providing literacy themed posters, alumni donating books to the library, activities for selecting reading books, vocabulary game activities, BBQ activities (Further Reading the Qur‘an), tasmi‘ activities, response activities reading results, independent reading hour activities, and reading challenge activities. The implementation of the stages of the School Literacy Movement (GLS) is an integrated activity so that the three (3) stages of GLS can be realized according to the guidelines. Programs or activities that are mutually integrated include the habituation stage, namely the daily reading journal, integrated with the development stage in activities responding to reading orally and in writing, and integrated with the learning stage in academic assessment. At the habituation stage, namely the arrangement of literacy facilities through moving books, integrated with the development stage... of independent reading hours for curricular/co-curricular activities. At the development stage, namely independent reading hours for curricular/co-curricular activities through BBQ (Qur’an Reading Development) activities integrated with the development stage for non academic assessments through tasmi’ activities. At the habituation stage, namely the arrangement of literacy facilities through literacy-themed poster media, integrated with the habituation stage of creating a text-rich environment.

Second, the obstacles faced in implementing the School Literacy Movement (GLS) at SMP Al-Azhar 3 Bandar Lampung include general obstacles and specific obstacles. The general obstacles consist of a lack of literacy-themed collections and inadequate library facilities. This results in a lack of interest in reading library, while special obstacles appear in moving book activities. This is due to a lack of supervision carried out by library staff the number is still minimal.
